Author's Notes:
I put this in the Guns N' Roses section because I wrote it with Axl Rose in mind.

It's funny, the pedestals that exist in our minds. How do people get up there? Maybe it's this burning talent that propels them, they become this unreal thing, only to be seen on T.V. and glimpsed in the magazines, and they can talk there, they can talk and move in endless YouTube videos but that doesn't make them real. They aren't real. The pedestal turns them into statues, cast in iron and stone, gazing down on you with opaque stone eyes. So they can't see you, you can only see them in your shield of invisibility. You only see them.
